“Our nation’s future is in good hands!” That’s how I felt following an event with Delaware’s young citizens. I was invited to speak during Sussex Technical High School’s Veterans Day Service. It was an honor to be asked but I was curious about the reactions from the young people. Would they be interested, was it just another assembly, would they listen to my comments? As a group of veterans entered the gymnasium, I felt the eyes on us. I sensed the curiosity that comes with seeing unfamiliar people. As I sat on stage, my true wish was that my words would resonate among those young Americans. I shared comments about my Korean War Veteran father and about my Vietnam War Killed in Action cousin. I focused on our American flag, emphasizing why it should “always” be respected. I explained how many, my cousin included, died defending our flag and how it represents a proud nation. I asked that while attending a football game, and the national anthem is played, how they should reflect on our flag’s meaning. After the service, I was approached by various students. They described how I opened them up the meaning of our flag. Some spoke of family members who served and the pride they felt. One teacher sadly commented on how some students failed to stand during the daily reciting of the Pledge of Allegiance and how he hoped my words would get through to them. Overall, I discovered our young Americans appreciate our nation, our colors, our freedoms. They, like others in society, sometime express themselves in unfavorable ways, but they understand our veteran’s service. The ironic thing is we wore the uniform so they’d have the freedom to be themselves.
A Prayer for Veterans with Emotional Scars

Dear Father, nothing is hidden from You. Even the silent sufferer You see. We lift up those with emotional scars who have served in our military. Those veterans are special to You and You love them. You see them. Strengthen them to seek help from friends or counselors. Give grace and patience to those who care for them. Give wisdom to the doctors who are treating them. We pray for peace for them and relief. Amen.

A Prayer for those Who Have Lost Loved Ones in Service

Heavenly Father who sees all of the hurt, comfort the hearts of those who have lost loved ones in the military. It might seem to us “unfair,” but You are the God who ordains our days. Let us remember those families are still grieving today. Remind them of Your love for them. Their loss provides for us a safe place to live and worship You. Keep those families close to Your heart today. Comfort them and let them know we do not forget their loved one’s sacrifice. Amen.

A Prayer for Veterans with Wartime Wounds

O Great God, look down on those people today who are suffering. No one is immune to suffering, but today we want to pray for those still hurting from wartime wounds. They have seen heartache, held sorrow close to their heart, and now they suffer. Begin a new work in their life today. I pray for those men and women who have served. Let them feel your comfort. Help them seek the help they might need. And let them know we do not forget them or their service. Amen.

Also, please continue to pray for the safety of those who are still serving and their families.
The Holidays Are Over, Why Am I So Blue?
Some tips to lift your sadness after the busy holiday time.

By Linda Walter, LCSW at Psychologytoday.com

1. Take some of what made you feel good during the holidays and continue them into the days and months after the holidays. For example, if you enjoyed having lots of plans and looked forward to being out with others, make sure you make some plans now. Invite people over; it doesn’t have to be a formal event, you can just invite them to play games, watch a movie, or cook a meal with you.

2. Go to the movies, theater, museums with others. Get entertained.

3. Start or continue your exercise routine. Think about doing your exercise with someone else a couple of times during the week so you have company and someone to look forward to being with.

4. If there were people you spent time with during the holidays that you really enjoyed and you don’t often see them, make a plan with them. It’s not necessary to wait for holidays to see the people you enjoy.

5- Don’t beat yourself up if you gained weight. It doesn’t mean anything other than that you gained weight. It doesn’t mean you’re weak, worthless or irresponsible. It’s never too late to get back on track with your eating plan.

6. Have at least one thing planned in your week that you look forward to.

7. Be kind to yourself with respect to any New Year’s Resolutions you may have made. Instead of berating yourself for not sticking to your plan, make a plan that you can stick to. Perhaps your resolution was unrealistic. It’s always better to make a goal that’s attainable rather than one that’s too far off the mark.

8. Take care of your health, including eating well, exercising and getting enough sleep.

If you can’t shake the post holiday blues, take a look at the information on my website about depression, http://www.lindawaltercounseling.com/common-issues/depression/.
If you feel you are depressed you may want to call a mental health professional to get some help.

Suicide Prevention After the Holidays

Behavioral health specialists report depression and suicide rates increase into the post-holiday period. Regular counseling sessions should include discussions about mental health. Some resources found on base are the Behavioral Health Community Counseling Program and Family Advocacy Program, military and family life counselors, the Families Overcoming Under Stress team, the operational stress control and readiness team, the hospital mental health department, the substance abuse control officer and the command chaplain. Other sources include the DSTRESS line at DSN 645-7734 or 098-970-7734; the Crisis Hotline at 1-800-273-TALK; or Military OneSource, which can be reached through a DSN line at 145.

The resources above are mainly for active military to include guards and reservist. VA programs are also available for veterans.
Please contact your local VA medical facility or DCVA for more information.
Delaware Gold Star Families were very busy with Wreaths Across America (WAA) services throughout the state. December 9, they met at Legislative Hall for the Nationwide remembrance service. Gold Star Families placed a Gold Star wreath outside Legislative Hall while the American Flag and Honor and Remember Flag waved above.

On December 12, Glasgow High School and Bill Conley invited the Gold Star Families to Glasgow High School for a welcoming service as the Wreaths Across America convoy made a stop in Delaware on their way to Arlington. Judy C. Campbell introduced each Gold Star Family on stage as she shared a brief history about their fallen loved one, including rank, branch of service and killed in action (KIA) or date of death (DOD). The families were presented a wreath and long stem red rose.

On Saturday, December 14, Gold Star Families placed wreaths on graves at the Bear Veterans Memorial Cemetery.

Look forward to public announcements, in the near future, for the dedication of Phase II of the Delaware Hershel “Woody” Williams Gold Star Memorial!!

Phase II will include a walkway, granite benches, landscaping and in-ground lighting.
A Hero’s Welcome: Who We Are & What We do.

Our motto is “Ensuring that all our military members get the proper welcome home.” We not only make sure they are welcome home, but also honor and dedicate POW/MIA Chairs of Honor all over Delaware. Out of the 48 chairs we now have in Delaware we have been responsible for 38 of them. We also help at Homeless Shelters, finding help for those that are desperate, food, clothing and whatever they may need. We also work with 22in22 and Stop Soldier Suicide, Wreaths Across America. We are one of the largest fund raisers in the state and educating our students in Delaware of the POW/MIA awareness. To include our involvement with the Tuskegee Airmen.

Samuel L. Crawford was and raised in the Southbridge area, Rt. 9 Corridor of Wilmington, Delaware along with his only sibling Rosa Lee Crawford (Guy). At 18, he left high school after his junior year and joined the Army on June 1950. After basic training he was sent to the front lines of the Korean War and was declared Missing in Action (MIA) while fighting the enemy on November 27, 1950 at the Chosin Reservoir in Korea. His sister Rosa Lee has never stopped hoping that her brother one day will come home. Ms. Guy grew up and had 3 boys of her own, Samuel Guy, served in the Navy, Quinton Guy, USMC and Donell Guy who has made a career in the Air Force, but for Ms. Guy there is still no closure for her brother’s disappearance, she has never received the folded flag, nor heard TAPS played or does she have a grave to visit. After meeting Ms. Rosa Guy 3 years ago A Hero’s Welcome Delaware has been trying to find a way of giving her a place to go to be with the memory of her brother near where she lives. After a brief communication with County Executive Matt Meyer and Ken Dunn, a place to dedicate a monument to Samuel L. Crawford was chosen in the neighborhood he grew up close to his sister’s home. It was a complete surprise to Ms. Rosa Guy when one of her three son's Samuel Guy brought her to the Rt. 9 Corridor Library and Innovation Center in New Castle on October 18, 2019 where a large crowd of veterans, patriots, friends, the community of New Castle, Lt. Gov. Bethany Hall-Long, local government officials, Fern Sumpter DPAA from Washington D.C and a few Gold Star families waited her arrival. It was a beautiful and meaningful ceremony where the whole community of New Castle came together to sing and honor PFC Crawford. Rosehill Senior Center members where Ms Rosa belongs, Coleman Memorial UMC Choir, Rev. Lawrence Pelham from Coleman Memorial Church opened the ceremony, William Penn JR-ROTC presented colors, William Mead, USMC sang the National Anthem and Ret. General Frank Vavala was the keynote speaker. A half dozen local government officials on hand. A beautiful monument was unveiled in remembrance of Samuel L. Crawford. Ms Rosa had mentioned that she didn't have a picture of her brother and couldn't remember after 69 years what her brother looked like, but thanks to Robin Brown from the Delaware Online archives, Ms. Rosa now has a photograph of her brother. A most meaningful, joyous, heartfelt ceremony. The whole community came together sang and honored our hero, SAMUEL L. CRAWFORD 10/21/1932 - MIA 11/27/1950. HE WILL NEVER BE FORGOTTEN. Please stop by the library to see the monument. On December 23, 2019 a few of us along with Mick Schroeder of the KWVA Chapter 2 placed a wreath with Ms. Rosa at the monument.
Talk about a mutually beneficial relationship. The Cape Henlopen Army Reserve 946 Transportation Company was in Lewes on December 7-8, 2019. As has been done in years past, the community donated food for our soldiers and the Auxiliary was proud to serve them a fine lunch on Saturday with a special visit from Auxiliary Historian Nancy Bush as Olaf, delivering a holiday stocking to each soldier.

In return, twelve members of the 946 Unit helped with assembly of the Post’s Christmas Parade float for the Lewes parade and then escorted the float in the parade. Their uniformed presence brought great attention to the float and the troop banners on it. These were the same banners that hung last summer from utility poles along Savannah Road and Cape Henlopen Drive. Each of these banners showcased actual photos of our hometown heroes who served their country. It was a pleasure to see an entire community honoring both the current troops and the veterans of the past by clapping, shaking hands, and with shouts of ‘Thanks for Serving,’ which was a great morale booster to these young soldiers. The float won Third Place in the Community Float Category, which successfully ends the Post’s year of honoring the 100th Anniversaries of the American Legion and its Auxiliary as military service organizations. As we have learned: We care for them and they care for us.
